Playing Chinese Characters Festival 2010
The festival aims to reverse the traditional impression of Chinese characters, with some creativity and imagination, the daily-used characters can be transformed into artistic works and inspire us in this way.

Technology and Art Gallery
International and domestic art creators have been invited to create with Chinese characters as the common language, transcending usage of diverse multi-media and materials, filming, technological voice and sound equipment... completing a creation transcending different fields of professions as well.
Books on Interior Designing
While immersed in an enjoyable and comfortable environment, one may study the books of master designers while imagining the stories behind the creations and ideas.
Creativity Lab
Cooperating with academic and research institutes and with the various multimedia techniques such as interactive projection, augmented reality, 3D virtual reality and multi-touch, the creativity lab has created a unique art style of Chinese characters.
Gourmet Street
There are various food vendors here. Regenerate your energy and continue to have fun!
Design Gallery
The host organization invite Taiwan's industrial designers and visual designers to display the creative designs inspired by Chinese characters.
Fashion Gallery
Artists integrate Chinese characters with icons of the fashion and apparel industry, inviting you to join in experiencing the beauty in Chinese characters.

Journeys with Ink and Colors : An Exhibition of Donated Works by Ma Pai-sui
In early 2009, Mrs. Ma generously donated to the Museum 42 works by her deceased husband, a collection she has kept for many years. Created from 1954 to 1994, these works include ink paintings, watercolors, prints, etc. Ma Pai-sui combined Western watercolor painting skills and the essence of Chinese ink painting to express in his work his love for Taiwan, while also rendering the scenery in many foreign countries he had visited. His "ink and color" works represent a unique modern style, showing simplicity, spirituality and characteristics of traditional literati.
