Get ready for 2020 Kaohsiung Award

After a long time of evaluation by experts in various fields, we finally picked the final 25 finalists from 438 contestants, whose works will be presented in this exhibition. The Kaohsiung Awards have entered its 24th session since 1997. The Kaohsiung Awards are the city's honor to the artist, which encourage the creation of artists by giving them a substantial

Awards have undergone many changes. It initiated the evaluation mechanism of "classification in the first examination, no classification in the second examination", and introduced the unique observer system in 2007, which not only interviewed the contestants and examined the artistic trends of each session, but also linked the first examination and the second examination, enriching the indispensable role of the speculative process. In 2015, in order to encourage the creation of calligraphy, it attracted the resources of private enterprises to jointly established the calligraphy and award, together with an exhibition. Each year's winning works reveal a new direction and driving seal carving awards with the HCS Calligraphy Foundation The Kaohsiung Awards will be reformed again in 2019, including (1) raising the prize money of the three awards to NT$500,000, (2) abolishing the restriction on the nationality of contestants to add the diversity of the awards, (3) the original eight categories (ink/gouache, calligraphy/seal carving technological art) are changed to "calligraphy and painting art", "painting and print art", "spatial art", "image and technology media art", with the new category of "crossover art", making a total of five categories. The Kaohsiung Awards provide artists with creative options to keep pace with the trend, embracing the spirit of diversity, blending, flow and macro of contemporary art creation, and highlighting the flexible and open mechanism of the Kaohsiung Awards. This is the appeal of Kaohsiung, a beautiful port city, hopes to spread. With open arms, we welcome a new generation of artists to come here to compete, show great energy, and share their

Taiwan used to be an important producer of pineapple cans in the world. During the Japanese occupation period, there were eleven pineapple cannery in Jiuqutang, Dashu District, Kaohsiung. Today, the or remaining cannery is the Tai Fang Pineapple Cannery owned by the King of the Pineapple, Ye Jintu. It we listed as a historic building in 2004. After restoration, it was reopened in August 2018 as Taiwan Pineapp Museum, bearing the rise and fall of the century-old history of pineapple canning in Taiwan and comme

Embark on The Adventurous Journey of Robert Swinhoe by Sea

To Robert Swinhoe, the Taiwan Strait was a cold and unfamiliar place on his first visit to Taiwan more than a hundred years ago. However, as his ship slowly entered Takow Harbor (now Kaohsiung Harbor), he was mesmerized by the view of the green, breathtaking Qingshan (now Tzaishan, also known as Shoushan), the seabirds flying above the water, and the blue sky. He fell in love with this

While savoring the wonderful design of the red-brick British colonial style arched building and sloped facade of the British Consular Residence on the hill, visitors can overlook the magnificent Takow Harbor. Then, visitors can walk down along the historic trail made of coral stone that the consul walked on many times a hundred years ago, enjoying the shaded tranquility. Wax figures and historical stories are waiting for you at the British Consular Office at the foot of the hill. Learning

THE BRITISH CONSULATE AT TAKOW Revisiting the History of the Shaochuantou

Founded in 1879, the British Consulate at Takow has experienced a number of regimes and property rights changes and witnessed the rise and fall of the international trade and fishing industries of Kaohsiung and Hamasen. It is the only existing historic cluster of monuments in Taiwan that provides a full picture of the British Consular Residence, the historic trail, and the British Consular Office.

The British Consular Residence on the hill No. 20, Lianhai Rd., Gushan Dist., Kaohsiung City The British Consular Office at the foot of the hill No. 7, Shaochuan St., Gushan Dist., Kaohsiung City 07-5314170

Sat., Sun., and national holidays 9:00-21:00 ticket sale ends at 20:30 The Consulate is closed for maintenance on the third Monday of every month. (except for July and August)

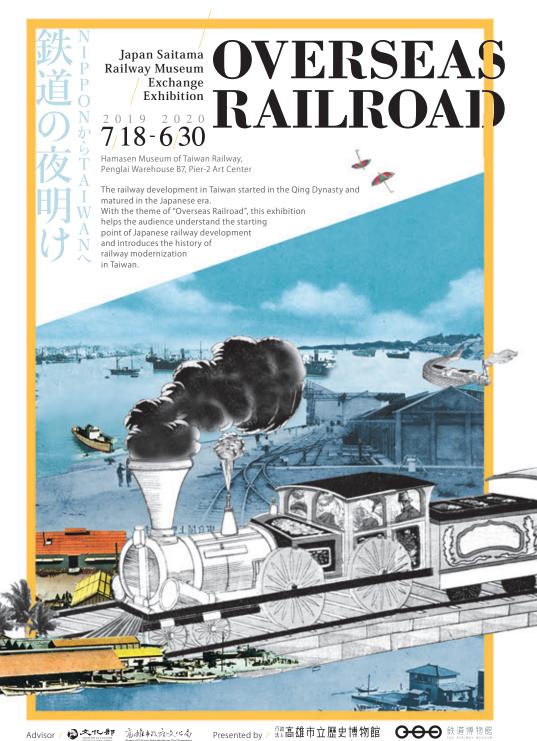

Mon. to Fri. 9:00-19:00

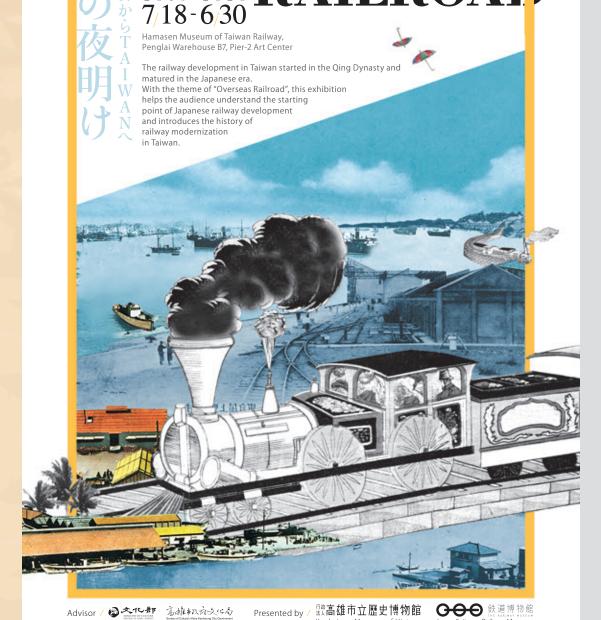

Shaochuantou was a major trading zone in the Takow Port, the primary reason why the port has garnered international fame; it was also the place where the Takow Customs was situated in the Qing dynasty, and the location where the first official British consulate in Taiwan was established. The Shaochuan Street, located in front of the British Consulate at Takow today, served as the venue where large ships docked and people loaded and unloaded cargoes.

By developing and renovating Shaochuantou and introducing the Waterfront Corridor, Shaochuantou is successfully connected to the historical site of the British Consulate at Takow, enabling visitors to revisit history and enjoy the wide, beautiful views of the Takow Port as they stroll leisurely along the shore.

9/28/2019-2/9/2020 ■KMFA Galleries 101-103 TATTOO This exhibition explores the world of tattooing and offers a unique approach to this ancestral practice presenting historical and contemporary works from a variety of countries. This is an exhibition which for the first time, presents the artistic dimension of tattooing and its history throughout human culture from its first appearance, paying homage to the contemporary pioneers. The musée du quai Branly reflects the growing interest given in our contemporary societies to this art, which is both a subject of fascination and of identity. While tattooing has a rich technical and social history, which has already been thoroughly studied and represented, tattooists and the tattooed act as spokespeople for the art on a daily basis. Meanwhile, the role of these artists who have developed the art of tattooing has never been sufficiently appreciated. For the event, the exhibition's curators, Anne & Julien, have employed an extensive network to unite artworks by the most important tattoo artists. To the Moon: Liu Kuo-sung showcases $6\overline{2}$ works by Liu, and the exhibition consists of three thematic sections: Abstract Wild-Cursive Script, Outer Space, and Modernity . Spanning a period of 55 years from 1964 to the present, this exhibition is not only a representation of the artist's artistic career, but also a historical retrospect to the art development of Taiwan. The Kaohsiung Museum of Fine Arts presents Liu's works, which are characterized by their unique images, to commemorate the 70th anniversary of his coming to Taiwan, echoing the precious courage and action of the first human Moon landing 50 years ago. The new media artist Huang Hsin-chien applies the images of Liu's works to his recent interactive tallation, which is also featured in the exhibition. Yunghsu Hsu: A World Made Light One of the internationally recognized artists from Taiwan, Hsu Yunghsu is representa of his broad artistic vision and drive towards creative expression. He has long been preoccupied by formal experimentations with the texture of ceramic materials, enlarging the space of his kilns to accommodate his aspiration to push the limits of ceramics to unprecedented levels of thinness, clarity and solidity. Hsu makes numerous openings and gaps in his hand-kneaded ceramic layers, allowing warm light to flow through the pieces, forming organic 'crystals' on the surface of the work.

In this exhibition, KMFA has invited Hsu to present twenty-one representative works from 2011 to the present, including 2019-1, a large-scale, singularly-fired sculpture nearly two stories high whose production thoroughly challenged the artist's physical stamina, technical finesse and knowledge of the firing process. With his breath-taking, constantly evolving practice and humour, Hsu leads the viewer into 'a world made light', always dazzling and light-hearted whether viewed from near or far

The concert includes performance of drum, rhythm, solo, chamber music string ensemble, orchestra, concerto, etc. We hope to share what we have learned in the past four years with the a kind of historical consciousness and research framework characterized with more openness and dialogues. Drawing references from the fraternity-like context of the painting associations popular in southern Taiwan back in the 1950s, this exhibition provides a theatrical and saloon-like ambience, in which the works by Chang Chi-hua, Liu Chi-hsiang, Chuang Shih-ho, and other famous artists in southern Taiwan from KMFA's collection are presented along the chorological timeline in order to review the dawning of modern art in the South. By launching this permanent exhibition on the 25th anniversary of KMFA, we hope to not only promote gradual recognition among Kaohsiung citizens of KMFA through the works specially selected from our collection but also build visual memories of this immigrant city through arts.

The prototype is composed of straight lines and triangular shapes of abstract geometry, which conveys rationality and determination. It is indicating that the new year will be filled with wisdom and courage. Meanwhile, art teachers were encouraged to lead local cultural colors themed children painting programs that bring out the recognition of local nature, history, and culture. The exhibition includes over a thousand color painted mini-mouses by students in Kaohsiung, Pingtung and Tainan, demonstrates a variety of color observation and students' abundant creativity in art. 1/16-4/12 ■KMFA Lobby

An art museum is a custodian of works of art, and must work hard to keep its works in the best possible condition. For instance, works must be recorded, inspected, and cleaned, and must be classified before being put into the storeroom. Why must works be inspected and cleaned? This is called prevention. An artist may use various materials, and small pests may be hiding in these materials. If a work containing pests is put into the storeroom, it may endanger other works. One of the jobs of a custodian is to reduce hazards to a minimum. The pitiless passage of time will cause materials to age, colors to fade, and pictures to become grimy and full of holes, scratches, and scribbled marks. When works of a custodian is to delay the aging of works of art.

like this are collected, it is necessary to call in an art physician—a conservator—to perform assessment and treatment. Another job This exhibition—"Collecting: This is the way to do it"—gives the public a look at the museum's collecting tasks. Covering the aspects of classification, recording, inspection, preservation, and conservation, this exhibition uses games and hands-on activities to show people the museum's little-known behind-the-scenes collecting work.
