Kaohsiung Arts and Cultural EVENTS CALENDAR

2022

高雄 春天 藝術節

Celebrate the end of the Year and the New Year with the Kaohsiung Spring Arts Festival (KSAF)!

Entering its 13th year, the “Kaohsiung Spring Arts Festival” has nearly 40 programs and 72 performances this year. In addition to the most popular venues such as National Kaohsiung Center for the Arts, Dadong Arts Center, Jhihde Hall of the Kaohsiung Cultural Center, Kaohsiung Experimental Theater, and the KMFA Grassland, the 2022 Taiwan Lantern Festival exhibition venue and the newly-opened Kaohsiung Music Center will be added as venues. In response to the pandemic, international programs will be broadcast on online platforms. Despite various changes, artistic and cultural performances are still accessible to the audience.

After more than a year of intensive preparation, this year’s “Kaohsiung Spring Arts Festival” has a great lineup of various types of programs. In early February, there will be an environmental dance performance in the outdoor terrace area of Kaohsiung Music Center. At the Taiwan Lantern Festival, visitors can experience a dance of light and shadow, creating a map of light with steps. The blockbuster “Maritime Glow” is Taiwan’s first light and shadow musical, performed at National Kaohsiung Center for the Arts outdoor plaza, one of the two main lighting areas. The play is set in Kaohsiung in the 1960s to depict the history and legends of the island and the happiness and love interwoven by the sea people.

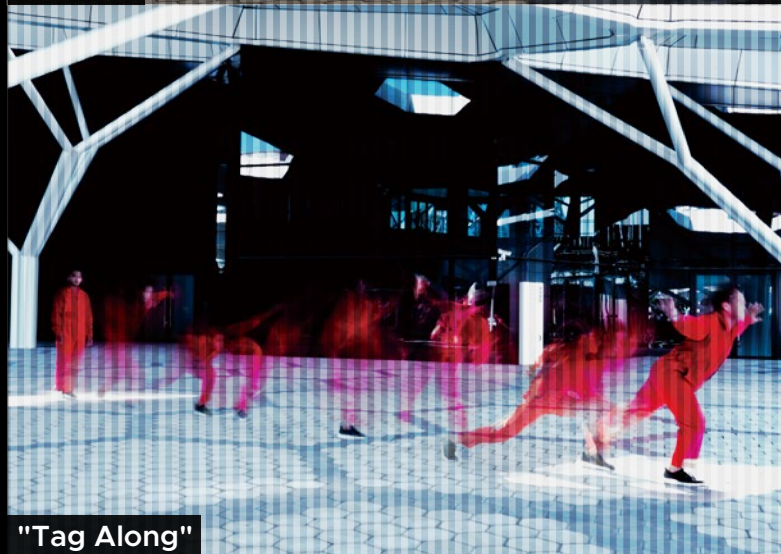

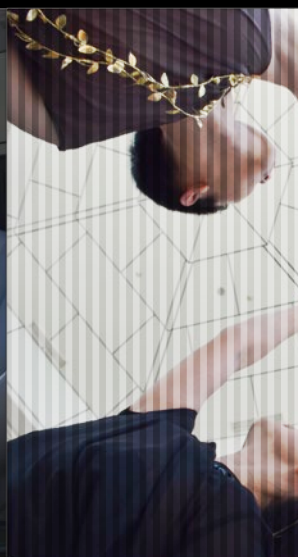

The most anticipated grassland concert will be “That Light in Our Hearts”, which has not been performed on the grassland for many years. “Raiders of the Lost Ark”, which was canceled in 2019 due to the pandemic, will also be played again. The “Impact Taiwan II” grassland concert will be performed after 2016, and more nostalgic Taiwanese film music will be included in the repertoire. The unforgettable film and live performance by the Kaohsiung Symphony Orchestra will bring many young and old music fans together under the stars and on the grassland.

In addition to the musical programs made by the two orchestras and performed by famous artists, there are also exquisite plays of KSAF and Taiwanese opera performances. The National Kaohsiung Center for the Arts, still a partner of the KSAF, will present many wonderful programs this year and become a huge art forest for people who love theater and performing arts.

Don't forget to reserve time for your favorite programs. We wish you happiness and peace in the New Year. Let's meet at the theater!

2022 Kaohsiung Spring Art Festival Environmental Dance Series

The 2022 Kaohsiung Spring Festival Environmental Dance Series will be held from 7 to 25 February at the Kaohsiung Music Center outdoor performance area! The theme is "light and shadow" in conjunction with the 2022 Taiwan Lantern Festival. The local dance troupes are invited to perform. These include Solar Site Dance Theatre's "Raven", Kaohsiung City Ballet's "City Lights", Blooming-Grass Cooperative's "Tag Along", and O1 Dance's "The White Night".

The environmental dance series focuses on fostering local teams, promoting local team creation, developing the urban environment and optimizing its performance style. The venue of these performances is mainly in the exhibition area of Taiwan Lantern Festival. We hope that the audience can experience the combination of light and shadow with dance and feel the beauty of dance in the living environment again.

the Van Buren Supernova

The Kaohsiung International Container Arts Festival is an arts festival unique to the port city. Themed "Van Buren Supernova," Kaohsiung's iconic Container Arts Festival in 2021 will feature exhibitions about light, stars, new life and hope. In response to the shortage of containers and raw materials caused by the pandemic this year, the arts festival uses the image of "absent containers" to preserve the soul of containers through the use of container-like media. In the meantime, the hardness and heaviness of containers is replaced with a sense of lightness that brings out people's expectations and hopes for the future.

The Kaohsiung International Container Arts Festival 2021 is an outpost of the 2022 Taiwan Lantern Festival, also held by Kaohsiung City. So, in "Van Buren Supernova," we think about life, light, and the supernova from an oceanic perspective. The containers are transformed into stars, just like the Milky Way's voyage across light years, connecting people's imagination of a new life with a gentleness enveloped by the sea/Milky Way.

Xiaoyao Villa

A quaint residence of the Japanese aristocrat hidden in Dagangpu

Hidden in the center of Kaohsiung, Xiaoyao Villa is an elegant Japanese villa built in 1940. It was once the residence of Ōtani Kōzui, a Japanese aristocrat. After World War II, the land around the villa was renamed Xingren New Village as the dormitory for the medical officers of the 802 Kaohsiung Armed Forces General Hospital. After ten years of investigation and restoration, the villa was reopened after nearly a century.

The farmhouse of Japanese aristocratic explorers in Taiwan

Ōtani Kōzui was a renowned religious scholar and explorer who traveled throughout Central Asia and Southeast Asia, giving the villa a mix of Japanese and exotic elements. Green walls and glazed green tiles match each other, while wooden terraces, round windows and multiple roofs are full of ingenuity. There are multi-functional areas in the villa, such as the emergency room, cooking area, dormitory and air-raid shelter. The decorations are detailed as the patio and walls with traditional indigo-blue checkered patterns show the traditional Japanese aesthetics. Tourists often have a rest by the lotus pool outside the house, which is also the most popular photo spot.

With the theme "POST-PANDEMIC ERA," Kaohsiung Design Festival 2021 will feature multiple programs and topics on its YouTube channel "Kaohsiung Designing", including eight design sections, two international design forums, and an illustration campaign.

About 60 projects with design issues and selected works will be exhibited in "Design Unboxing". Through images, designs, industry and brand stories, it will bring you an in-depth understanding of the design power of Kaohsiung.

2021 Kaohsiung Design Festival - Illustration Collaboration Action 2021.11.12-2022.02.28

Dayi Warehouse C6-7

"Honey, we're materializing positive energy from everywhere!"

The Illustration Collaboration Action is a collaboration between Pier-2 Art Center and illustrator CROTER Hung, seeking positive ideas to encourage those who are struggling in the face of COVID-19.

After a two-month open call, we have received wonderful submissions from all over the world every day. Creators at home and abroad inspire others through illustrations and become heroes of the pandemic prevention themselves. The exhibition includes 100 illustrations and images. We invite people to participate in interactive creation and experience the energy and beauty of illustration.

10,000 Feet Below Sea Level 2021.12.24-2022.1.12

Dayi Warehouse C8-20: Young Art Space

Artist: Chang Yun

The sea is like this society, and the creatures in the sea are us. In this society, we are all like tiny sea creatures in the ocean.

In order to explore self-cognition and the concern and identity between people, the artist expects all the viewers to re-examine their self-identity, so that both individuals and groups can find themselves and their own positioning under the light or in the dark.

The Memories of Warehouses

Dayi Warehouse C7

A hundred years ago, it was the hub for imports and exports. With the change of industrial structure, it is now an important place for importing and exporting creative ideas. This exhibition deciphers the story of the warehouses through four sections.

Meet the warehouse

Travel in the Harbor City

Time Carving

Developing the Pier-2

The Master: Yasunari Kawabata

Yasunari Kawabata's work is often nihilistic and whimsical. His study and deep understanding of Japanese traditional culture give his stories grand imagery with irresistible charm. Understanding Kawabata's work from the perspective of film, rather than literature alone, gives the audience a fuller picture of the writer's state of mind and his time.

The Formosan Sambar and the Shovel-jaw Carp

那瑪夏特展 Special Exhibition of Namasia

Venue: Common Room 203

Namasia was once the name of a boy who ran up the valley of Nanxian River, showing us the deep mountains of Kaohsiung. Here the river used to be clear and full of shovel-jaw carps, and warriors chased the Formosan Sambars until the rain gave the land a taut variation and stood up again in the mud. Let us follow the song to find the name of this land Namasia.

Venue: Exhibition Room 201

From the 1960s until the lifting of martial law, many domestic and foreign human rights workers and organizations actively advocated human rights in Taiwan. Their strength and courage exerted great influence. Taiwan, having gone through an authoritarian history, needs to cherish its hard-earned democracy and freedom and pay them forward.

Brilliant 90 Heritage: Chen Hsi-Huang's Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

Venue: 4F, Kaohsiung Museum of Shadow Puppet

This exhibition is a tribute to Taiwan puppet master Chen Hsi-Huang's 90th birthday. Starting from tradition, the "Yesterday" block will display the classic works of Chen and 18 classic puppets restored for "Taipei Puppet Theater". The "Today" block takes inheritance as the theme and gathers the works of lecturers and students of "Chen Hsi-Huang Master Craft Class". The "Tomorrow" block shows the courage of reform and shows how Chen Hsi-Huang's disciples expand the possibilities of puppet play.
